Summary of the grant:	The "Education for Consent" project aims to help institutionalise education on consent, personal boundaries, and the prevention of sexual harassment in secondary schools. Through focus groups with secondary school students in several municipalities, the project will produce a comprehensive research report on young people's knowledge, perceptions, and experiences of these issues. The report's findings will inform the "Law Marathon", where 20 law students, with professional mentoring, will draft a policy document and an administrative model for implementation in schools. The project will conclude with an information campaign and an advocacy roundtable to mobilise parents, teachers, civil society, and institutions.
