

CIVIL SOCIETY INVOLVEMENT IN THE EU ACCESSION PROCESS
EXECUTIVE PROGRAM FOR WESTERN BALKANS CSO EXECUTIVES

BIOGRAPHIES OF THE TRAINERS

DAVID PHINNEMORE – Visiting Professor of the College of Europe.

Prof. Phinnemore is Professor of European Politics, Jean Monnet Chair in European Political Science and Dean of Education in the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences at Queen's University Belfast in Northern Ireland.

He holds a BA in European Studies (1990) and was awarded his PhD in European Studies by the University of Kent at Canterbury in 1998. His teaching interests are focused on the European Union – notably its institutions, decision-making procedures, external relations and enlargement. Much of his current work is focused on the process and potential implications of Brexit, the form that a new UK-EU relationship might take, and the consequences of Brexit for the EU and especially for Northern Ireland and the island of Ireland more generally. David Phinnemore's research interests cover EU treaty reform, EU enlargement, EU external relations, particularly association, and Brexit. These have resulted in a range of publications, notably: The European Union's 2007 Enlargement (Routledge, 2012, edited with C. Chiva); Reflections on European Integration: 50 Years of the Treaty of Rome (Palgrave, 2009, edited with A. Warleigh-Lack); Romania and the European Union: From marginalization to membership (Routledge, 2008, with D. Papadimitriou); The EU and Romania: Accession and Beyond (editor, London: Federal Trust, 2006); Understanding the European Constitution: An Introduction to the EU Constitutional Treaty (Routledge, 2005, with C.H. Church); and The Penguin Guide to the European Treaties Penguin (Penguin, 2002, with C.H. Church). He has also contributed chapters to a range of edited volumes and published articles in the Journal of Southern Europe and the Balkans, Journal of Common Market Studies, Journal of Contemporary European Studies, Journal of European Integration, European Foreign Affairs Review, Revue d'Etudes Comparatives Est-Ouest, Southeast European and Black Sea Studies, and Perspectives on European Politics and Society. His most recent monograph, The Treaty of Lisbon: Origins and Negotiation, was published by Palgrave Macmillan in 2013. Among his forthcoming publications is The European Union, its Neighbors, and the Proliferation of 'Privileged Partnerships' (edited with S. Gstöhl).

<https://www.coleurope.eu/whoswho/person/david.phinnemore>

LUCIANO MORGANTI– Visiting Professor of the College of Europe.

Luciano Morganti – Visiting Professor of the College of Europe.

Prof. Morganti is Professor at the VUB – (ES-Solvay Business School) in the Communication Department where he teaches in the international master New Media and Society in Europe. He teaches courses related to New Media, the European Public Sphere and Internet Governance. Previously, he was professor at Vesalius College and visiting professor at La Sapienza and the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee. He was the owner and director of 2 companies specialized in Web Communication and EU Consultancy (2002-2015). He was a teaching assistant at the College of Europe and he is a regular speaker for the seminars and trainings organized by the College of Europe Development Office.

Prof. Morganti graduated in Philosophy at La Sapienza Rome (1994), he has a master degree from the College of Europe - Bruges (1997) - European Advanced Studies - Human resources development and a master degree from the ISC – Saint Louis – Brussels (2002) - Interactive Multimedia Project - Cyber communication. He obtained his PhD from the Vrije University Brussel (2004) - Communication Studies.

Research interests: the European Public Sphere and Citizens Participation, Internet Governance and the changes brought by New Digital Media to our societies.

FLORENT MARCIACQ

Florent Marciacq, PhD, MA, MSc is Deputy Secretary General and Research Fellow at the Austro-French Centre for Rapprochement in Europe, a Vienna-based intergovernmental organization promoting European integration in the Western Balkans and Eastern neighborhood. He is the cofounder and a co-coordinator of the Western Balkans Reflection Forum initiative, the expert-component of the Berlin Process, and launched in 2017 the Eastern Partnership Reflection Forum initiative. Both aim at strengthening the interface between research and policy levels in enlargement policy matters, and mobilizing the community of experts at the pan-European level in the pursuit of an open, inclusive, strategic and policy-oriented reflection on the EU's approach towards the Western Balkans / the Eastern neighborhood.